Philosophy

The Mendham Township Elementary School is committed to delivering comprehensive reading instruction based on the New Jersey Learning Standards and best practices found in research. The K - 4 curriculum is based around the essential components of reading: phonemic awareness, phonics, fluency, vocabulary, and comprehension and elements of each component are found at each grade level. Reading is the ability to create meaning from print or text. Through word recognition (phonemic awareness and phonics) and an understanding of the print/text (vocabulary and comprehension) reading becomes automatic (fluency). Reading instruction includes a variety of whole group, small group, and individualized instruction. At each grade level there is a whole group objective/skill that is modeled and practiced using a core text. Students then apply the objective/skill using texts at their own individual reading level. Through all genres of reading, critical thinking skills are empowering the students to become thoughtful, articulate and active members of our society.

Goals

This curriculum is designed to advance students through grade-specific standards, develop a deeper understanding of skills, and work toward meeting the expectations of reading to prepare students for college and careers in order for them to succeed in the future. The goals of this curriculum will develop in our students the ability to:

1. read closely to determine what the text says explicitly and to make logical inferences and relevant connections from it; cite specific textual evidence when writing or speaking to support conclusions drawn from the text.
2. determine central ideas or themes of a text and analyze their development; summarize the key supporting details and ideas.
3. analyze how and why individuals, events, and ideas develop and interact over the course of a text.
4. interpret words and phrases as they are used in a text, including determining technical, connotative, and figurative meanings, and analyze how specific word choices shape meaning or tone.

5. analyze the structure of texts, including how specific sentences, paragraphs, and larger portions of the text (e.g., a section, chapter, scene, or stanza) relate to each other and the whole.

6. assess how point of view or purpose shapes the content and style of a text.

7. integrate and evaluate content presented in diverse media and formats, including visually and quantitatively, as well as in words.

8. delineate and evaluate the argument and specific claims in a text, including the validity of the reasoning as well as the relevance and sufficiency of the evidence.

9. analyze and reflect on how two or more texts address similar themes or topics in order to build knowledge or to compare the approaches the authors take.

10. read and comprehend complex literary and informational texts independently and proficiently with scaffolding as needed.

Reading Curriculum

Grade 4

Grade 4 Unit 1: Interpreting Characters - The Heart of the Story

Stage 1: Desired Results

Level Benchmark:

P/Q

Unit Goals:

- Readers will get to know their own reading identities and establish goals/habits to make their reading the best it can be.
- Readers will strive to think deeply about the characters in their books and learn from them through the development of theories.
- Readers will develop their skills in visualizing, predicting, summarizing, questioning, inferring, synthesizing, and connecting.
- Readers will establish reading partnerships that positively influence the reading community.
- Readers will be able to analyze theme.

Essential Questions:

- How do readers set goals that will take reading to the next level?
- How do readers walk in a character's shoes?
- How do readers build theories about characters?
- How do readers grow theories about characters?

Skills/Knowledge:

- Readers will read with independence.
- Readers will set personal goals to create positive reading experiences.
- Readers will work in partnerships to help each other grow ideas.
- Readers will walk in a character's shoes by envisioning, connecting, and predicting.
- Readers build and grow theories about characters by thinking about a character's personality traits, motivations, obstacles, and lessons learned.
- Readers build and grow theories about characters by noticing how other characters act towards them.
- Readers defend their ideas by using specific evidence from the text.
- Readers will use close reading strategies to help them understand the text.
- Readers will determine the central theme in a book.

NJSLS for ELA:

Reading Standards: RL.4.1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 9, 10

RL.5.1

RF.4.3, 4

Writing Standards: W.4.9

Speaking and Listening Standards: SL.4.1, 2, 3, 4, 6

Language Standards: L.4.1,2,3,4

Stage 2-Assessment

Assessment:

- Formative - Observations, Accountable Talk, Reading Conferences, Book Club
- Summative Assessment - Reading Responses, Logs, Projects
- Benchmark Assessment - DRA, Running Records

Stage 3- Learning Plan

|  |  |
|--|--|
| Pre-Bend I   | Teaching Points: *Optional lessons to do to help launch reading at the start of the year or to imbed within Bend I.  |
| Building a Reading Life - Sessions I &amp; II | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Today I want to teach you that readers reflect upon positive and negative reading experiences in reader's notebooks to change reading lives for the better. We can do this by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Using memories of when reading was great and also didn't go well.</li> <li>- Creating realistic and important reading goals.</li> </ul> </li> </ul> |
| Building a Reading Life - Session V           | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Today I want to teach you that when we read, we need to make sure that we aren't reading on autopilot. Instead, we need to pay attention, making sure we are reading in such a way that we let the words matter.</li> </ul>   |
| Building a Reading Life - Session VII         | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Today I want to teach you that readers must choose what their relationship toward books will be. As readers, we can be curmudgeons toward books, or we can let books matter and read them as if they are gold.</li> </ul>   |
| Bend I: Establishing a Reading Life           | TEACHING POINTS You may choose to imbed the Signpost Strategies within Bends I and II. Please note that Session 9 can be used to teach the Again and Again strategy.   |
| Session 1                                     | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers will understand that to grow solid, grounded ideas, people read intensely, aware that everything counts and pay close attention to what they are reading. (create anchor chart)</li> </ul>  |
| Session 2                                     | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers understand that in order to grow ideas about books, they need to choose books they can read fluently and understand well. Good readers check each book before committing to it.</li> </ul>  |
| Session 3                                     | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers will collaborate to establish procedures and systems for helping each other find books that they want to read.</li> </ul>   |
| Session 4                                     | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers will learn how to do a synthesis retelling to help strengthen their comprehension skills. (reference chart pg. 37)</li> </ul>   |

|   |  |
|---|--|
| Session 5   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Readers will make a movie in their minds to put themselves into the world of their books as they read. They will role play to put themselves into the world of the characters.</li> </ul>   |
| Session 6   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Readers will work with partners to improve their ability to envision. (Use the Narrative Reading Learning Progression Chart to compare grades 3 and 4. See page 54 for reference, but you can use this link http://www.nsd.org/cms/lib08/WA01918953/Centricity/Domain/2613/Literacy%20Resources/ReadingNarrativeLearningProgression.pdf</li> </ul>  |
| Bend II - Thinking Deeply About Characters | TEACHING POINTS Reminder - You may choose to embed the Signpost Strategies within Bends I and II. Please note that Session 9 can be used to teach the Again and Again strategy. While it is not included in the TC unit, we recommend including a book club for Bends II and III. Modeling can be done with Tiger Rising, but students can also practice the strategies with The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane. While having all students read the same book is not a traditional book club, it is a core novel that we are all familiar with and can promote small group discussion of sign post identification and theory development. You may wish to add on a session to review book club expectations and protocol. |
| Session 7   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Readers will develop theories about characters, paying close attention to a character's actions and motivations, noticing if they fit with or change what readers know about the character. They ask, "Why might the character have acted this way?" "What do these actions show about the character." Readers will notice patterns in actions or breaks in patterns. (create anchor charts to "Grow Ideas about a Character" and "Developing Ideas about Characters" - pg 67)</li> </ul>   |
| Session 8   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Readers will pay close attention to details that reveal characters' desires, obstacles encountered, and their struggles to overcome them to best understand both characters and the story. Readers will use these thoughts to grow an idea about the type of person the character is.</li> </ul>  |
| Session 9   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>* Consider using the Sign Post lesson for this teaching point and then applying it to your mentor text, or just use the mentor text to teach the strategy.</li> <li>Readers grow ideas about a character by noticing when the author uses the Again and Again strategy to call attention to something over</li> </ul>  |

|   |   |
|---|---|
|   | and over and can ask themselves, “Why is this important?”   |
| Session 10                                 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers will life the level of their character theories by using more precise, true language to capture their ideas about characters. Readers will find evidence to support their theory. (see chart - Making Connections to Form a Theory on pg 102).</li> </ul>  |
| Session 11                                 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers recognize that characters are complex and may act differently depending on the relationship or setting. Readers look for text evidence that proves this complexity to help grow ideas about characters. Readers also analyze how other characters act toward the main character to help grow ideas.</li> </ul>   |
| Session 12                                 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers will debate differing viewpoints on a provocative question about a book. Readers will support his or her side with evidence to persuade the other person.</li> </ul>   |
| Session 13                                 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers will defend and critique ideas by quoting specific passages from the text that provide evidence for their ideas.</li> </ul>  |
| Bend III - Building Interpretations | TEACHING POINTSTeachers may choose to embed other lessons on Theme within this bend of the unit.  |
| Session 14 - 15                            | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers realize that to understand/interpret a story, they must pay attention to characters, setting, recurring objects or images, plot, mood, parts that connect to each other. Readers should ask themselves, “How is this helping me understand what the whole book is about?”</li> </ul>   |
| Session 16                                 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers will push themselves to have deeper thoughts and build interpretations about a story by looking across their cumulative thinking, finding patterns, and making connections. They can do this by laying out post-its that contain thoughts and ideas and finding ways that they connect to the bigger picture. Use thought prompts chart on page 150.</li> </ul>  |
| Session 17                                 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers will think about common themes that authors write about in children’s books and then see if any of those fit with their own book and with the mentor text. We can do this with partners by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- thinking about life issues that are important to the world and that can be found in the book.</li> <li>- Thinking about the message the author is teaching about those issues (through characters, setting, plot, etc).</li> <li>- Connecting all of these smaller messages into one powerful message.</li> </ul> </li> </ul> |

|-------------------|---|
| Session 18 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers will review recurring images, objects, and details throughout the mentor text to help them develop complex interpretations about the story.</li> </ul> |
| Session 19 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Readers will celebrate the end of the unit by making bookmarks that represent them as readers.</li> </ul>  |

Integrated accommodations and modifications for students with IEP's 504s, ELLs, and gifted and talented students:

- The unit includes presentation of material through multiple modalities such as visual, auditory, kinesthetic to address the unique learning styles of all students.
- Assign, assess and modify if necessary to address the specific needs of the learner.
- Students will select from authentic literature at their independent and instructional reading levels.
- The teacher will individually conference with each student to address specific needs of the reader.
- The teacher will provide modified and/or alternate grade level checklists and rubrics to scaffold or stretch learning.

List of Core Instructional and Supplemental Materials:

Mentor Texts/Read Alouds - Tiger Rising by Kate DiCamillo (unit follows this book) or The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane by Kate DiCamillo

Building a Reading Life - Stamina, Fluency, and Engagement, Lucy Calkins and Kathleen Tolan, Teachers College Reading and Writing Project, Columbia University, 2010.

Units of Study for Teaching Reading, Grade 4 Unit 1, Interpreting Characters - The Heart of the Story, Teachers College Reading and Writing Project, Teachers College, 2015.

Notice and Note - Strategies for Close Reading, Kylene Beers & Robert Probst, Heinemann, 2013.

The Reading Strategies Book: Your Everything Guide to Developing Skilled Readers, Jennifer Serravallo, 2015.

Interdisciplinary Connections

Social Studies: 6.1.4.C.16 Explain how creativity and innovation resulted in scientific achievement and inventions in many cultures during different historical periods.

W.4.3. Write narratives to develop real or imagined experiences or events using narrative technique, descriptive details, and clear event sequences.

Integration of 21st Century Skills and Life and Career Standard

CRP1, 2, 4, 6, 8, 11

Integration of the Technology Standard

NJSLS.8.1

Grade 4 Unit 2: Reading the Weather, Reading the World

Stage 1: Desired Results

Benchmark: Q/R

Unit Goals:

- Readers will be able to employ the skills needed to engage in research teams that will be necessary to solve problems both globally and locally.
- Readers will embark on “learning to learn” and becoming independent thinkers and learners.
- Readers will establish reading partnerships that positively influence the reading community.

Essential questions:

- How do readers determine importance and synthesize in Expository Nonfiction?
- How do readers navigate narrative and hybrid nonfiction text?
- How do nonfiction readers teach others what we have learned from a nonfiction text?

Skills/Knowledge:

- Students will understand the difference between fiction and nonfiction texts.
- Students will recognize and utilize text structures and text features in order to glean what matters most from a text (i.e., paying attention to table of contents, diagrams, charts, graphs, organizers, photos, captions, glossaries, indexes).
- Students will move from studying specific topics to thinking about patterns and relationships across a bigger field.
- Students will read with flexibility, adjusting expectations and strategies as they progress through a sequence of text structures.
- Students will make connections with the nonfiction texts they read by building on schema to grow deeper understanding about their nonfiction text subjects through synthesizing.
- Students will deepen their understanding of nonfiction texts by developing theories.
- Students will identify author slants while evaluating credibility and trustworthy sources.

NJSLS:

RF.4.3 - RF.4.4

RI.4.1 - RI.4.10

SL.4.1 - SL. 4.6

L.4.1 - L.4.6

W.4.2; W.4.4; W.4.6; W.4.7 - W.4.10

Stage 2-Assessment

Assessment:

- This unit focuses on the following skills to be assessed:
  - Main Idea(s) and Supporting Details/Summary
  - Analyzing Parts of a Text in Relation to the Whole
  - Analyzing Craft
  - Cross Text(s) Synthesis
- Means of Assessment
  - Culminating Project: 5 Structured Newspaper
  - Formative - Observations, Accountable Talk, Reading Conferences, Book Club
  - Summative Assessment - Reading Responses, Logs, Projects
  - Benchmark Assessment - DRA, Running Records

Stage 3- Learning Plan

|  |  |
|--|--|
| Pre Bend   | For Bend I - you will find it advantageous to pair students in same-level partnerships. For Bends II and III students take on team-based research projects on topics related to extreme weather and natural disasters. Invite students to write a quick letter to you about the topics they would like to study.   |
| Bend I: Learning from Texts  | Teaching Points This unit divides the research project into two assignments - both done as a group research project  |
| Session 1Reading and Learning with Intensity                                     | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Nonfiction readers make a commitment to learning from texts by making connections between what they already know and care about and the text. “Archaeological dig” - Have students dig throughout their backpacks and pockets to assemble an evidence based answer to the question,, “What sort of nonfiction texts fill my life?”</li> <li>Grown up nonfiction readers make a commitment to learning from a text, by making connections between what they already know and care about, and the text. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Browse through the book by looking at the title, the cover, and previewing the pages.</li> <li>Ask yourself, “What do I already know about this topic that connects in some way to this topic?”</li> <li>Ask yourself, “What do I care about on this topic that connects in some way to this topic?”</li> </ul> </li> </ul> |
| Session 2To Learn from Nonfiction, Readers Get Their Mental Arms around the Text | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Nonfiction readers preview texts by surveying the parts of the text as well as activating prior knowledge to anticipate how the text might go. Students survey the parts of the text, paying attention to headings and topic sentences, and they use what they already know about the topic to think, “This part seems to be about...and this other part seems to be about...”</li> </ul>  |
| Session 3Text Structures Help Accentuate What Matters                            | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Nonfiction readers move beyond previewing expository texts to actually reading them, they often notice the way the text is organized. Expository texts have a five common structures: description, problem/solution, compare and contrast, cause and effect, and chronological sequence.</li> <li>Nonfiction readers utilize transitions words within each structure (chart pg. 29).</li> <li>Anchor chart for accumulated strategies so far for Bend 1 (chart pg. 31) &amp; (chart pg. 36).</li> </ul>  |
| Session 4Embracing the Challenge of Nonfiction Reading                           | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Nonfiction readers will find that there are a bunch of ways that nonfiction texts can be hard, and when you know some of these ways, you can get yourself ready to tackle the hard parts.</li> </ul>  |

|   |  |

| Bend III: Tackling a Second Research Project with More Agency and Power              | Nonfiction readers will build upon their first research. Students will now research a second topic under the larger themes of extreme weather and other natural disasters. Students will continue to work within the same clubs. The topics will be the same as the first bend, with two research teams exchanging topics and assisting each other. Researchers who studied drought, now study floods; researchers who studied hurricanes now study tornadoes; and researchers who studied earthquakes now study tsunamis. That is, a research team that has already studied hurricanes and now shifts to a study of tornadoes will not simply learn about the cause of tornadoes; instead they will learn about the causes of tornadoes in relation to hurricanes. Emphasis of the entire unit is to teach students about the world. Questions to consider: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. How is this the same as what I already know?</li> <li>2. How does this add to or change what I know?</li> </ol> |

Integrated accommodations and modifications for students with IEPs, 504s, ELLs, and gifted and talented students:

- The unit includes presentation of material through multiple modalities such as visual, auditory, kinesthetic to address the unique learning styles of all students.
- Assign, assess and modify if necessary to address the specific needs of the learner.
- Students will select from authentic literature at their independent and instructional reading levels.
- The teacher will individually conference with each student to address specific needs of the reader.
- The teacher will provide modified and/or alternate grade level checklists and rubrics to scaffold or stretch learning.

Grade 4 Unit 3: Historical Fiction Clubs

Stage 1: Desired Results

Benchmark: Level P and above

Unit Goals:

- Students will build collective interpretations, listen closely to each other, and know how to carry ideas across time- both in book club discussions and across more than one text.
- Students will be able to compare and contrast the overall structure (e.g. chronology, comparison, cause/effect, problem/solution) of idea events, concept, or information in two or more texts and analyze multiple accounts of the same event or topic on numerous texts of the same time period.
- Students will be able to determine the theme of a story from details in the text, including how characters in a story respond to challenges.

Essential Questions:

- What is historical fiction?
- How do readers tackle and interpret complex texts?
- How does the historical time period of a book affect the way a character acts?
- How can my book club help me to understand and interpret the information in my historical fiction book?
- How do I create and develop theories about the characters in historical fiction books?
- How do I read my historical fiction book through the lens of a theory that I have created?
- How do readers become more complex because of reading?

Skills/Knowledge:

- Students will identify the setting and emotional atmosphere of their historical fiction books.
- Students will create supportive book clubs that will help them interpret the text and deepen their ideas about what they are reading.
- Students will recognize that there are two separate, but intertwined timelines in every historical fiction book: the main character's timeline (the timeline of the events of his/her life), and the historical timeline (the timeline of the big historical events that are happening around the character). The reader's goal is to unravel how these two timelines affect one another.
- Students will use nonfiction texts alongside fiction and notice how each text develops a theme and compare and contrast multiple books with the same theme, analyzing carefully and using details as evidence for their ideas.
- Students will create and deepen theories about the characters in their historical fiction books.
- Students will recognize who has the power in their historical fiction books and analyze how this power affects individual characters differently.
- Students will learn from the choices the characters make in historical fiction books and apply these lessons to their own lives.

| PreBend:Constructing Book Clubs to Do Important Work                                    | Teaching Points:*It is suggested to spend time establishing ground rules for book clubs. Students should spend time constructing a club name, logo, constitution/rules prior to embarking on the reading <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>➤ What will your rituals be/ways of working?</li> <li>➤ How will you plan your reading?</li> <li>➤ How will your club plan and organize reading? (Calkins-page 11)</li> <li>➤ In a well run club, members.... (Calkins-page 11)</li> </ul>   |
| Bend I: Tackling Complex Texts Session 1: Reading analytically at the start of a book | Teaching Points: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers pay particular attention to the start of a book to analyze the setting. We realize that the story will almost never say, “This shows that trouble is brewing” or “ This shows a sense of hope” so we must gather clues to figure out what kind of place it is. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>o Readers rev up our minds for reading by noticing details about the setting</li> <li>o Ask, “What clues is the author giving me that suggest what kind of place this is?”</li> <li>o Pay close attention to signs of trouble or change to think about what this place feels like.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>   |
| Session 2: Monitoring for Sense: Fitting the Pieces Together  | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers keep track of story elements as they read, continually building their understanding of what’s going on. Specifically, they make note of the who, what, where, when and why of the book. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>o Record the main topic (ex. a character’s name or place)</li> <li>o As you return to that name or place, jot down new details as they emerge (make comparisons to boxes and bullets)</li> <li>o Continue to collect and organize key facts so that you can fit the who, what, where, when and why together.</li> </ul> </li> </ul> *“In this unit, you will be tackling complex texts and doing more sophisticated thinking. To do that well, you’ll need to make a commitment to taking care of your club, which involves listening to every member.” Discuss what active listening looks and sounds like! Anchor chart- Powerful Book Club Conversations (Calkins- page 19) |
| Session 3: Thinking Across Timelines: Fitting   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Today I want to teach you that in historical fiction, there can be more than one timeline- and the two are entwined. To understand anyone,</li> </ul>  |

|---|---|
| History and Characters Together  | it helps to know the way that person's timeline intersects with the timeline of world events. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Create example of your own personal timeline, and a parallel historical timeline as a model</li> </ul> *Mid-workshop Teaching Point: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Readers notice dates in their books: Create post-its that represent dates you have come across in your novel</li> <li>2. Add these post-its to the historical timeline in your journals.</li> <li>3. Compare your ideas about the timeline in your book with club members</li> </ol>   |
| Session 4: Characters' perspective are shaped by their roles                     | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● A character's feelings and decisions are influenced by the character's world, and his or her role in that world. When a character responds differently than you would, it helps to ask why. We then come to realize that the character's perspective is shaped by the times. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Return to a familiar scene and think, "Why a character behaves as he or she does?"</li> <li>○ Consider how the historical events are helping to shape the characters in the story.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>  |
| Bend II: Interpreting Complex Texts Session 5: Making Significance | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Reader's don't wait for someone else to decide which passages are worth pausing over. We read alertly, ready to say, "Wow. This part almost seems like it's written in bold." We then ask, "How does this connect to other parts of the text?" and "What is this part really about?" <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Notice if an image /word is repeated often. Ask, "Might it be a symbol of something bigger?"</li> <li>○ Notice is something else catches you by surprise and stands out. Think, "Why might the author have put in this surprising part?"</li> <li>○ Notice if new insight dawns on a character.</li> <li>○ Clues That Suggest a Passage Is Worth Pondering Anchor Chart- page 46)</li> </ul> </li> </ul> Mid-Workshop Teaching Point: Readers don't go empty handed to a Book Club <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Rehearse your best thinking about parts of the story that you feel are important</li> <li>● Use prompts to help grow your idea: "Could this have anything to do with...?, I wonder..., Maybe... Remember earlier in the story when..., These ideas might go together..., The author might be trying to teach us..."</li> <li>● Jot your best idea on a post-it as an artifact of your thinking to bring to your club meeting.</li> </ul> |
| Session 6: Seeing Big Ideas in Small Details                                     | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● When you are thinking, talking or writing about big ideas- it is wise to look for clues to big ideas in small moments, small details, and small objects.</li> </ul>  |

|---|---|
|   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Mark a section that feels important and ask, “What is significant about this part of the story?”</li> <li>○ “How does this part fit with an earlier part? How does it connect to what the whole story is really about?”</li> <li>○ “Why might the author have written in this particular way, including these details and words?”</li> <li>○ “What is the character learning about life and the world? What am I learning?”</li> </ul> *Good readers study and discuss how ordinary objects often symbolize big ideas. Pay attention to recurring images, objects and details in our novel (symbol)   |
| Session 7: Determining Themes   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Once readers have developed an interpretation of a book, they keep it in mind, using it like a lens, growing and shaping that interpretation as they read on.             <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Create an idea (ex: war makes kids grow up early)</li> <li>2. Find examples of that idea as you read with that lens.</li> <li>3. Push to add a “because...” statement to your idea or revise it to make it more precise or broader.</li> </ol> </li> </ul> Mid-Workshop Teaching Point: Themes or big ideas have more power when you think of them as claims about the world, rather than just about the book. Example on page 70. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Use words like “kids” or “people” when writing your claim instead of specific characters’ names</li> <li>2. Talk about the theme of a story as a sentence or two rather than one word             <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>i. Start with one word theme</li> <li>ii. Ask yourself, “What is this book teaching me about (one word theme)?”</li> </ol> </li> </ol> |
| Session 8: Deepening Interpretation through Collaboration and Close Reading | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers are open to new ideas, both as they read and in conversation with other readers, and they can use these ideas to make their interpretations more powerful             <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Use a club that can fishbowl their conversation in front of the class. Encourage them to build off and extend each other’s ideas.</li> <li>○ Quick write using prompts to continue the students on a journey of thought (Calkins page 81)</li> </ul> </li> </ul>  |
| Session 9: Attending to Minor Characters                                    | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● On way readers broaden or deepen their interpretation of a text is to take into account the perspective of minor characters             <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Try to understand the point of view-Perspective-of a minor character (Figuring Out Perspective-Calkins page 87)</li> <li>○ Use conversational prompts (Calkins-page 91) as a tool to get students started.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>   |

|--|---|
| Session 10: Self-Assessing Using Qualities of a Strong Interpretation  | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Today I want to teach you that readers also take their interpretations around theme through a process of drafting and revision. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Discuss/review what theme is</li> <li>○ Record what you think the theme of the book is before you continue reading.</li> <li>○ Read on in your book with a lens of that theme, marking passages that support your idea</li> <li>○ Revise your ideas both in writing and talking with your clubs, using prompts to guide: I'm changing my mind...I'm starting to think... Can we try that idea for a bit?...</li> </ul> </li> </ul>  |
| Bend III: The Intersection of Historical Fiction and HistorySession 11: Turning to Primary Sources to Better Understand History | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers of historical fiction often study images--photographs and illustrations-- from the time period they are reading about, and think about how they relate to relevant parts of their novels in order to better understand the time period. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Ask: What does the picture remind you of in the book? (Go back to the text and look again)</li> <li>2. Look at all parts of the picture and notice the details</li> <li>3. Use expert vocabulary to describe what you see</li> <li>4. Compare what you had been picturing in your mind to what you see in the image.</li> <li>5. Think about how the picture affects your envisioning of what you read.</li> </ol> </li> </ul> |
| Session 12: Turning Reading into a Project: Add Background information to deepen understanding   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers of historical fiction don't limit themselves to the book in their hands; they gather resources as they go that will help deepen their understanding. One important way to do this work is to read texts that will give you more background knowledge, alongside your novel. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Find places in your story where you have questions.</li> <li>2. Look for a source, including a part of a bigger article.</li> <li>3. Read just that part to gather information.</li> <li>4. Rethink what happened in the book with this information in mind.</li> </ol> </li> </ul>  |
| Session 13: Readers Learn History from Historical narratives   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers can also use historical fiction books to teach them about history if they read the books with the lens of learning information through them. Students should: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Read the text as information</li> <li>2. What topics can you learn about?</li> <li>3. What are the main ideas and supporting points?</li> </ol> </li> </ul>  |
| Session 14: Some people's perspective is not all people's perspective  | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers come to know people's perspectives, they are careful not to make assumptions or overgeneralize.</li> </ul>   |
| Session 15: Seeing power in its many forms   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Readers, looking at our books with the lens of power leads to all sorts of new thinking. When we investigate who has power, what form</li> </ul>  |

|   | power takes (how you see it), and how power changes, that helps us find huge meanings in books. -Potential Questions to Investigate Power: Who makes the rules? Who is in charge? What are the signs of that power? What is the resistance? What is their power?   |
| Session 16: Finding Thematic connections across texts   | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Readers, you've learned to think hard about people, places, and events in the stories you read, and also about ideas. When you have developed some thinking about a big idea in one story, sometimes that thinking helps you find similar ideas in another story.             <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Have clubs agree on a big idea that their book represents in one or two sentences</li> <li>One club shares their idea, and the rest of the clubs ask, "Could this idea hold true in our book?"</li> <li>Put hands into circle to see how one idea can relate to multiple texts</li> <li>Reinforce that big ideas aren't confined to just one book- that author's pull the big ideas in their books from real life.</li> </ol> </li> </ul> |

Grade 4 Unit 4: On - Demand Reading Strategies

Stage 1: Desired Results

Benchmark: Reading Level R/S

Unit Goals:

- Readers use strategies to chunk on-demand reading passages.
- Readers use strategies to answer multiple-choice and open-ended questions.

Essential Questions:

- What is a narrative text?
- What is an expository text?
- How can we chunk the information in different types of text?
- What strategies can we use to answer multiple-choice questions?
- What strategies can we use to answer open-ended questions?

Skills/Knowledge:

- Students will be able apply skills and strategies from previous genre units to dissect reading passages.
- Students will be able to use various strategies to answer multiple-choice and open-ended questions.

NJSLS:

RL.4. 1-10

RI.4. 1-10

FS.4. 3, 4

Stage 2-Assessment

Assessment:

- Formative - Observations, Accountable Talk, Reading Conferences, Book Club
- Summative Assessment - Reading Responses, Logs, Projects
- Benchmark Assessment - DRA, Running Records

Teaching Points:

Teaching Points:

NARRATIVE:

- Readers identify narrative text and use a framework to organize the information (character, setting, problem, and solution).
- Readers identify narrative text and use a framework to organize the information (character, setting, problem, solution).
- Readers are alert for what kind of people the characters are.
  - What do they want?
  - What challenges do they face?
  - How do they overcome those challenges?
  - How do they change?
  - What do they achieve?
  - What lessons are learned?
- Readers identify different types of multiple choices questions and use different strategies to answer them by asking themselves..."What is this question asking me to do?" (Ex. main idea questions, detail questions, inference questions).

- Readers can spot different categories of questions through tricky wording. Readers answer multiple choice questions by using the strategies cross out, look back and hide & think (ask Gr. 3).
- Readers use the strategy RATCT to answer open-ended questions.

EXPOSITORY:

- Readers identify expository text and use a framework to organize and chunk the information (boxes/bullets in the margins).
- Readers stop frequently while reading and ask themselves... "What did I just read?"
- Readers identify the different types of multiple choices questions and use different strategies to answer them by asking themselves... "What is this question asking me to do?" (Ex. main idea questions, detail questions, inference questions).
- Readers can spot different categories of questions through tricky wording.
- Readers answer multiple choice questions by using the strategies cross out, look back and hide & think (ask Gr. 3).

Integrated accommodations and modifications for students with IEPs, 504s, ELLs, and gifted and talented students:

- The unit includes presentation of material through multiple modalities such as visual, auditory, kinesthetic to address the unique learning styles of all students.
- Assign, assess and modify if necessary to address the specific needs of the learner.
- Students will select from authentic literature at their independent and instructional reading levels.
- The teacher will individually conference with each student to address specific needs of the reader.
- The teacher will provide modified and/or alternate grade level checklists and rubrics to scaffold or stretch learning.

List of Core Instructional and Supplemental Materials:

Grade 4 Unit 5: Reading History - The American Revolution

Stage 1: Desired Results

Benchmark: Level S/T

Unit Goals:

- Readers will be able to build knowledge about the era through independent research.
- Readers will research varying points of view and defend their own perspective with solid evidence.
- Readers will use strategies to help them tackle more complex texts.
- Readers will understand how the past continues to impact us today.

Essential Questions:

- How can readers use everything they know about research to learn all they can about one aspect of the American Revolution?
- How can readers conduct research to learn, synthesize across texts, and teach others what they are learning?
- How can readers transfer and apply what they have just learned about researching in order to take on a new research venture, this time with more independence?

Skills/Knowledge:

- Readers will use their knowledge of nonfiction text structures to help them organize information and notes.
- Readers will compare and contrast information across texts.
- Readers will conduct research on a specific topic by paying close attention to the most important details.
- Readers will organize the information gleaned from research so that they can synthesize across texts.
- Readers will recognize different perspectives to best understand the past.
- Readers will synthesize their learning to teach others.

NJSLS:

RI.4.1-10

RF.4.3-4

SL.4.1 - SL. 4.6

L.4.1 - L.4.6

W.4.1-2; W.4.7 - W.4.10
